OTHER MATTERS TO REVIEW

When updating your rules, keep in mind that there have also been law changes regarding the issues below. Your rules should not say anything that is inconsistent with the new laws.

Register of Members

- Under the new laws an incorporated association will have the option to keep the names and either residential, postal or email address of its members.
- It also allows members to provide a statutory declaration setting out the purpose for which the copy of the register of members is required.
- If a members requests that the Association provides them with a copy of the register, the rules may permit the Association to charge the member a reasonable amount.

Rules of Association

- A copy of the rules must be given to each person who becomes a member of the association

Committee and officer duties

- Committee member and officer duties are now codified in the Act. If your rules say something about committee duties you should check that the provisions are consistent with the requirements in the Act, in particular, around managing conflicts of interest.
- Under the new law a person will be prohibited from sitting on the management committee of an incorporated association (without prior approval by the Commissioner for Consumer Protection) if they:
 - are an undischarged bankrupt or their affairs are under insolvency laws;
 - have been convicted of an offence in connection with the promotion, formation or management of a body corporate;
 - have been convicted of an offence involving fraud or dishonesty punishable on conviction by at least three months or more imprisonment; or
 - have been convicted of an offence under Division 3 (the duties of officers provisions) or section 127 (the duty with respect to incurring of debt) of the Act.
- Where a person is prohibited because they have been convicted of an offence they cannot be a committee member for a period of five years from their conviction, except where the conviction resulted in imprisonment, in which case they cannot be a committee member for five years from their release from custody.
